LONDON, July 28.—The historic Polish fortress city of Brest Litovsk, where Germany and Russia signed their First World War peace treaty, has fallen to a Soviet offensive of epic sweep now surging westward from the Carpathians to the Baltic, the Berlin high command admitted today.

Nazi broadcasts said fighting had broken out at Przemyśl, another Polish citadel 60 miles west of Lwow, indicating that the Russians were storming it from the captured area of Zurawica, two miles to the north.

Daring Assault

Sabang Base Smashed In Sea, Air Attack

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH

ABOARD A BRITISH CRUISER OFF SUMATRA, July 28.—(AP)—The Japanese-held Sabang naval base on northern Sumatra, at the entrance to the Malacca strait leading to Singapore, was heavily bombed by major units of the Allied eastern fleet with a covering support of carrier-borne aircraft just after sun-up yesterday, and was torpedoed, gunned and strafed by an infighting light force which swept boldly inside the harbor.

18 Candidates File Election Papers in City

With filing of papers by four more city candidates Thursday afternoon, a total of 18 persons have completed nomination papers with M. H. Crawford, city returning officer. Nominations close Saturday at 2 p.m. in both city and rural ridings.

Nomination standings, by parties, are as follows: Social Credit, 57; CCF, 57; Independent, 36; Labor-Progressive, 29; others, 4, making a total of 183 candidates in the field.

(The complete unofficial list of nominations will be found in tabulated form on Page 5.)

Those filing Thursday were F. O. J. T. Caine, DFC, and Cecil Chapman, both independent party candidates; Clifford E. Lee and James E. Enright, CCF candidates.

TWO TO COME

Only two city nominees have not filed papers as yet. They are James A. MacPherson, Labor-Progressive party leader in Alberta, who heads a five-man slate to contest city seats for his party, and Clarence Richards, fourth man on the Independent party slate.

Other city candidates who have filed papers include five Social Credit nominees: Premier Ernest Manning, N. B. James, Orvis A. Kennedy, H. D. Carrigan and J. B. Gillies; three CCF nominees, Elmer E. Roper, provincial leader, Mrs. F. C. Buttrick, J. H. Dowler; J. Percy Page, Independent party; four Labor-Progressive candidates, Alex. Herd, William Halina, Jan Lakeman and Mrs. G. Murdoch; and W. J. Williams, Veterans' candidate.

Robots Spreading More Destruction

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, July 28.—Robot bombs strewn more death and destruction through London and southern England today and the authoritative magazine The Aeroplane warned that Nazi production of jet-propelled aircraft may be sufficiently far advanced "to constitute a threat to Allied air supremacy over Europe."

Several fires were started in the British capital and in other districts during the night. Rescuers in one area worked by flares in an effort to tunnel through debris to reach trapped persons.

British, Netherlands and Allied warships took part in the powerful attack, in which "complete surprise was achieved," an Allied communiqué announced. It added harbor installations "were almost completely destroyed." Battleships, cruisers and destroyers took part in the 35-minute battering. The ships received only minor damage, and one aircraft was lost.

(Tokyo radio announced the Allied attack Wednesday, asserting that two Allied destroyers and a submarine were sunk and that a number of Allied planes were shot down.)

HIT RADAR STATION

Carrier aircraft initially damaged a radar station and an airdrome and destroyed four grounded planes and two more attempting to shadow the fleet.

The bombardment, which a communiqué described as "most effective," hit dockyard workshops, wharves and slips with at least 16 salvos of heavy shells, and they all were damaged extensively.

Battleships, cruisers and destroyers lay offshore lobbing scores of tons of shells with devastating effect and providing cover for a Netherlands cruiser—operating in Dutch colonial waters—and three Allied destroyers which penetrated the almost land-locked harbor.

SINK MERCHANTMAN

With guns blazing the raiders sank a medium merchantman, silenced remaining shore batteries and wrecked two jetties with torpedoes at a cost of minor damage and very few casualties, including two dead, before withdrawing.

Halifax Shipyard Strike Continues

HALIFAX, July 28.—(CP)—Giant cranes and huge docks of the Halifax Shipyard, Limited, stood idle today as the strike of 3,000 employees, most of them members of the International Union, Marine and Shipbuilding Workers, (C.I.O.), went into its second day with no sign of a settlement.

The strike was called after the company had refused the union's demands that recommendations of a federal conciliation board for a union check-off and maintenance of membership be carried out.

Police stood guard this morning, ready to protect the workers—less than two score all told—who ran the gauntlet of the jeers of picketers to report for work, but no incidents were reported. The decision to mount a police guard over picket lines came after several workers were detained by picketers as they attempted to leave the plant last night.

Fetes Committee

LONDON, July 28.—(CP)—Premier Stalin gave a banquet for members of the Polish committee of national liberation last night, the Moscow radio announced.

The fall of Brest Litovsk, almost encircled stronghold 115 miles east of Warsaw, unhinged the last German salient looping eastward into the string of bastions on which the last Nazi hope for an effective stand in central Poland depended.

LONDON, July 28.—(BUP)—Premier Josef Stalin announced tonight that the Russians had forced the San river in Lower Poland, and had captured Przemyśl, fortress city west of Lwow, as well as Jaroslavl.

"FIGHT BACKWARDS" Berlin acknowledged that the routed and hard-pressed German army in the east abandoned Brest Litovsk and "fought back to new positions" as powerful Soviet forces narrowed the escape corridor westward to about six miles.

The Nazi acknowledgment of Brest Litovsk's loss indicated that the Red army was adding a black Friday to the black Thursday on which it smashed its greatest victories of the war in a single day.

3,000 Planes Blast Targets On Continent

LONDON, July 28.—Almost 3,000 Allied heavy bombers and fighters from Britain and Italy rocked Axis Europe by daylight today, smashing at the vitals of the Nazi war machine in central Germany and the Ploesti oil fields in southern Romania.

The two-way blow was set in motion by a fleet of 2,000 Flying Fortresses, Liberators and fighters that Berlin said skirted the German capital to hit the big aircraft and chemical centres of Dessau, Halle and Merseburg.

Simultaneously, an estimated 500 Italy-based heavies, covered by strong fighter formations, heaped new devastation on Ploesti's battered oil installations.

The Romanian ground defences threw up a terrific flak barrage and laid a defense smoke screen across the vital oil fields, but returning fliers said their bombs touched off great fires and explosions throughout the target area.

At least 1,000 Flying Fortresses and Liberators and an equal number of long-range Mustangs. Lightnings and Spitfires.

GLASGOW, Scotland, July 28.—(BUP)—Twenty-one persons, including wounded American soldiers and one U.S. army nurse, were killed when a troop-carrying ambulance plane crashed near the Mull-of-Galloway last night.

Military authorities said the plane apparently struck a cliff and crashed on the rocks below. There were no survivors. Many bodies were charred beyond recognition when the wreckage caught fire.

The plane was en route from southern England to a Scottish hospital. Two other troop transports which were making the trip landed safely at an RAF station.

The victims' bodies were brought to the town of Kirkpatrick in a lifeboat.

Winch Speaks

Claims Choice Is Capitalism Or Socialism

CALGARY, July 28.—(CP)—As a Socialist party the CCF believes anyone in Canada who accepts his responsibilities as a citizen, irrespective of race, creed or color, is entitled to the rights of citizenship. Harold Winch, leader of the CCF in British Columbia, said here last night in an election campaign speech at a public meeting.

Mr. Winch was answering a question from the floor of the meeting as to whether or not the CCF believed in a vote for the Japanese residents of Canada.

Asked if a federal CCF government would send German prisoners of war back to their own country at the end of the war and whether or not a federal government had powers to do so, he replied: "Definitely. They have the power and I cannot conceive for one moment."

TORONTO, July 28.—(CP)—Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan said in an interview here yesterday a "considerable amount" of provincial bonds were coming due shortly and he believed his government can get a "fairly good refunding rate without much trouble." Some Saskatchewan bonds now pay 5½ and 6 per cent, he said, and the recently-elected CCF government hoped to refund them eventually at rates as low as 3 per cent.

Capitalizing swiftly on the greatest American armored breakthrough which shattered the German defences in western Normandy, first army spearheads struck into the edge of Coutances and completed the encirclement of Nazi troops

Tells House

King Promises No Deferment In Federal Vote

OTTAWA, July 28.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons today the general election will not be deferred even if the war continues.

Will Be No Delay

He recalled he had previously said it was not his wish that the people be denied the opportunity of electing a new parliament every five years if war conditions made it possible.

He thought he could prevent such a delay and went on to declare there would be no delay, whether or not his party suffered politically.

Earlier, Mr. King said that not a single Progressive Conservative member had supported the stand taken on family allowances by John Bracken, their national party leader.

He recalled Mr. Bracken had described it as "political bribery" which should be stopped.

"I thought those who profess to be his followers in this house would have supported him," said Mr. King. "It is quite clear that no members of this house, in his seat, has wished to repeat any such allegation."

TAKE DIFFERENT STAND

Mr. King said, two speakers in the opposition opposed the bill—Progressive Conservative house leader Gordon Graydon and Dr. Herbert Bruce (PC-Toronto-Parkdale). "A voice from a past era," Dr. Bruce spoke for those who believed in a stratified class society with the lower classes kept in their places.

Mr. King said there was a silence from the opposition for a day and then Progressive-Conservative speakers took a different attitude and supported the bill.

Nazi Agency Says Changes Impending In Turkish Gov't

LONDON, July 28.—(CP)—The German propaganda agency Transocean said today in a Berlin broadcast that there were rumors current in Ankara of impending changes in the Turkish government, and that it was believed "certain changes are possible." The report was not substantiated by Turkish or Allied sources.

Hornell had fought the war from Canadian bases and landing strips that extended no closer to the actual war theatres than Iceland and he was one of those stubbornly patient coastal command fliers who tracked long hours over bleak North Atlantic wastes, unsung and with little attention and not much excitement to break the monotony.

Recently, however, the U-boats had hit back and Air Minister Power said Hornell was a "valuable asset."

Eighth Army Closing Fast On Florence

ROME, July 28.—The British 8th army, advancing yard by yard through bitter enemy resistance, stormed to within seven miles or less of Florence today while American and German forces to the west massed for the battle of Pisa and exchanged heavy artillery and mortar fire across the Arno river.

(A German communiqué said the Allies opened an offensive on a wide front south of Florence and that fierce fighting was raging there today.)

New Zealand tanks and infantrymen spearheaded the frontal drive on Florence, slugging right up Highway Two against fanatically resisting Nazi paratroopers and shock units who fought to the death from a network of hill positions and machine gun nests covering the southern approaches to the city.

PUSH LINES AHEAD

The New Zealanders pushed their lines forward about a mile yesterday, capturing the strongly-fortified town of San Casciano and moving on four miles to the northwest of Florence.

Captured Poles, Russians Kiss Boots of Canadians

By WILLIAM A. WILSON

CAEN, France, July 28.—A group of Poles and Russians taken prisoner in the latest drive on the Caen front actually got down on their hands and knees and kissed the boots of Canadian soldiers when captured.

One prisoner carried out a broad one-man flanking movement and approached a Canadian position from the rear in order to surrender.

Another prisoner seemed determined not to lose his escort while being brought in and when the escort failed to hear the sound of an approaching mortar bomb, the prisoner shoved him to safety in a ditch and dived after him. The Canadian soldier admitted the captive obviously saved his life.

EXPECT CRUELTY

Many prisoners appear to expect bad treatment from their captors. For instance one young German was brought in with an arm almost completely shot off. He was standing in a group of prisoners when a Canadian company commander noticed his condition and approached for a look at the arm when the prisoner flinched and tried to avoid him.

When the officer ordered stretcher bearers to take care of the prisoner and instructed him to lie down on stretcher, the boy's face lit up with surprise and gratitude.

late farm credits and several private bills.

G. G. McGeer, K.C. (L—Vancouver Burrard) supporting Mr. Perley's motion said present banking legislation lacked control measures which the government could use to block an inflationary boom.

"It is a dangerous thing to move into conditions we cannot escape in the post-war period with anything frozen that doesn't have to be frozen," he said.

Passage of the bill with its 10-year charters would deny parliament the right to make changes in the banking system during the next 10 years.

Finance Minister Bailey, speaking later in the meeting, said the banks could be called before a parliamentary committee at any time during the 10 year period and if he was finance minister and there was a strong opinion in favor of such action he would support it.

R. W. Mayhew (L—Victoria) opposed the two-year limit on the ground that banks could not function properly on a short-term basis.

He said the banks shared the responsibility of a limited development in Canada and suggested the appointment of a three-man commission to supervise the banks and study whether they provided adequate service.

"LAST" RENEWAL

"The banks realize this will definitely be the last time their charters will be renewed & their foot slips once in the next 10-year period or if we can't get enough money to recoup in the post-war period," he said.

John Blackmore, Social Credit leader, supported the Perley amendment. He said there was evidence of something radically wrong in the financial structure of the country and the record of performance of the banks was "not good."

"You don't know what you are talking about," said W. A. Fraser (L—Northumberland). At another point Mr. Fraser said he thought Mr. Blackmore was "generally screwy."

Mr. Bailey said with the banks being asked to enter the field of intermediate farm credit it was particularly important they should have the stability of a 10-year extension rather than only two years.

west of Maupertus and within less than a mile of Percy, a road town 15 miles southeast of Coutances and seven miles southwest of Tessy.

FALL IMMINENT

Correll rode up with the armored forces extending the American breakthrough to a depth of 15 miles in the Coutances area, and reported while the main force still was a little over two miles from the town that its fall appeared imminent.

One U.S. column struck down the Lessay road 2 1/2 miles below the fallen western anchor of the crumpled German defenses and captured the village of Marguerite. Slightly to the east another force moved down the Av Valley about four miles and seized Corbucourt, seven miles north of Coutances and five southeast of Lessay.

The British and Canadian end of the Normandy front was quiet after guns and planes broke up another German attempt to form for an attack in the Verriers area later yesterday.

CONFUSION IN RANKS

A headquarters spokesman said the Germans were withdrawing as fast as possible along the main road down the west coast, with various degrees of confusion in their ranks, while a few miles inland the resistance was stiffer in an attempt to set up a wavering shield for the retreat.

Although the weather held down air activity in support of the American drive, fighter-bombers based in France blasted German tanks and horse-drawn artillery a mile ahead of the American armor. Pilots reported that the advanced ground elements were beyond Martin Le Crenilly, a mile southeast of Notre Dame-Le Crenilly.

The Germans appeared to be in a panic, retreat all along the 40-mile western half of the Normandy front as the greatest tank offensive ever mounted in western Europe went into its fourth day. Supreme headquarters said there no longer was "any question of a line on the United States front."

UMBRELLA OF PLANES

Slashing forward at will under a mighty umbrella of dive-bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters, U.S. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's tank columns engulfed dozens of road-side hamlets and villages and appeared well on the way toward breaking completely out of the Normandy bottleneck, paving the way for a drive on Paris.

The proportions of the German rout were mounting almost hourly. More than 3,000 prisoners were taken in the first three days of the offensive and Correll said he counted at least 700 more streaming back from the front in trucks this morning.

DESTROY EQUIPMENT

Considerable amounts of enemy material have been destroyed, front dispatches said, but no count was available. The Germans were known to have gambled all available strength in containing the Allies in the Normandy peninsula, and a breakthrough to the interior of France probably would result in an Allied advance to the west at a pace rivaling that of the German push to French coast in 1940.

"What happens next is likely to influence the entire course of the war," Correll said. "We have hundreds of armored vehicles operating within enemy country right now."

He also revealed that the tank columns were self-sufficient, carrying their own gasoline, ammunition and food supplies.

Today's German high command communique acknowledged that ning and Thunderbolt fighters participated in the assault, laying their bomb loads through a thick overcast that hid the targets.

The daylight attack followed a night raid during which RAF Mosquito bombers unloaded scores of 4,000-pound blockbusters on the battered German industrial and railway center of Stuttgart.

PLOESTI BOMBED

The night raid on Stuttgart, the fourth on that city in five days, was timed with an attack by Italy-based RAF heavy and medium bombers on Ploesti, in the heart of the Balkan oil field, and followed numerous other assaults as Allied aircraft ranged over the continent virtually unopposed by the Luftwaffe.

Admitting the raid on Stuttgart, the German Transoceanic News Agency also reported the bombing last night of Interburg, 60 miles east of Koenigsberg and hub of rail communications in East Prussia. Allied sources mentioned neither the Interburg raid nor a raid on Bucharest, which was reported by the German DNB Agency.

In addition to attacking Stuttgart, the RAF bomber command sent Lancasters and Stirlings over northern France last night to blast again at launching platforms for flying bombs. From all the night operations, the air ministry announced, all aircraft returned.

Eighth Army Closing Fast On Florence

Cerbaia. In the Cerbaia sector and just north of San Casciano the 8th army was barely seven miles from Florence last night, well within artillery range of that ancient centre of commerce and culture.

(A BBC broadcast record by NBC monitors said the New Zealanders were only six miles from Florence.)

On their left flank, second British armored column hammered out substantial gains in an enveloping sweep apparently aimed at cutting the Arno river line around Empoli, 20 miles west of Florence. The British advanced as much as four miles, capturing Valicchio and Cambiano, nine and 11 1/2 miles west of San Casciano, and driving to within three miles of the Arno.

PREPARE PISA ASSAULT

At the western end of the battle line, American units of the Allied 5th army moved into position for an assault on Pisa, under heavy fire from German guns studding the heights north of the city.

American artillery countered heavily, but there was no immediate indication that Pisa itself was under fire, despite warnings from 5th army spokesmen that the ancient city would be shelled if the Germans continued using its famous leaning tower and other buildings as artillery observation posts.

(German broadcasts yesterday said a large Allied fleet had been sighted off the west coast of Italy, apparently manoeuvring for an amphibious assault on Genoa or La Spezia. There was no Allied confirmation.)

On the central front, 8th army units won local gains in the high ground between the Arno and Tiber rivers in very heavy fighting. Polish units of the 8th Army were on the attack along a 10-mile front on the Adriatic coast, advancing through steadily-weakening enemy opposition.

Plan to Exclude Argentina From Post-War Talks

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(AP)—The Argentine government, by its continuing support of the Axis, is considered in official quarters here to have forfeited its right to sit down with the United Nations in important war and post-war conferences, including whatever peace conferences may be held.

This exclusion policy, already invoked at the Bretton Woods monetary conference, has been given a new and more permanent base by Wednesday night's official United States declaration denouncing Argentina as a "deserter" of the Allied cause.

One immediate result will be that the Argentine government will have no part in the talks this fall between the United States and the other American republics on creation of a post-war security agency.

they would not one and all be sent back to their own country."

"Let it be clear that under a CCF government there would be no further immigration into Canada of those who cannot be assimilated as citizens of Canada," he said.

The present war, said Mr. Winch, was the greatest indictment of capitalism.

"If you don't want Fascism in Canada, there is only one way to stop it and that is to wipe out the system that breeds it and that is capitalism," he stated. "Don't forget that Canadian capitalism played its part in building up Fascism in Germany and Europe."

"If you want more wars and depressions vote for capitalism, but don't belly-ache when you get it," he said. A vote for the Independent party, Social Credit or "Liberal party puppet, I mean L.P.P.," was a vote for capitalism, he said.

The choice of the voter on Aug. 8 was the road of capitalism or the road to socialism. Capitalism could not solve the depression until Hitler came to its rescue. The men who returned from World War I were still fighting for the rights they won during that war, said Mr. Winch.

Brest Litovsk Fortress Falls To Red Forces

day, overrunning six of the biggest German defence bastions on the eastern front.

With the capture of Brest Litovsk, Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky tore out the last German anchor impeding a frontal push against Warsaw, against which Russian armored forces were driving within less than 30 miles, at a rate promising to bring the Polish capital under siege within a matter of days.

FLEEING WARSAW

Stockholm reports said German authorities and Nazi party officials were fleeing Warsaw, and had completed plans to evacuate its industrial plants while Polish patriots were picking off occupation troops in an upsurge of guerilla warfare within the city.

Along with Brest Litovsk, the German high command admitted the loss of Lwow, Bialystok and Dargavits, three of the six big bases taken yesterday in the Red Army's greatest day of the war which issued a victory salute of 22,400 rounds in Moscow last night.

Ancient Brest Litovsk, at the confluence of the Bug and Muchawiec rivers, is the hub of rail lines to Moscow, Minsk, Wilno, Warsaw and East Prussia. Its pre-war population was 50,000. The Russians fortified it heavily before the first World War and considered it impregnable. But it fell to the Germans in 1915, and the Germans made it headquarters for their eastern army.

DRIVE ON CAPITAL

Far to the west, Rokossovsky's Cossack cavalry and armor already was pounding toward Warsaw, scattering the remnants of broken and disorganized German units which fell apart under the terrific hammering.

"The enemy is on the brink of a precipice," the Soviet Army Journal Red Star said. "Forward to the west" is written on our battle flags."

Border Is Crossed To Evade Call-Ups

LONDON, Ont., July 28.—(CP)—Existence of a two-way movement of young men across the international border in an attempt to evade military call-ups in Canada and the United States was disclosed yesterday by officials of the mobilization section of the National Selective Service office here.

"In some cases it is not an attempt to beat the draft but merely a preference for service in the army of the other country," officials said. Number of cases was not known, but it was stated officials of the mobilization branch and the United States selective service are working together in an effort to combat the movement.

A number of the Canadian men are believed to have crossed the line to avoid the call-up and now are working in business or industry, officials stated, adding that some American men also are believed to have come to Canada for a similar reason.

To Make Tests Reveal German Woman Flew in Robot Bomb

LONDON, July 28.—(CP)—The Berlin radio said yesterday Mrs. Hanna Reisch had been awarded the Iron Cross first-class for flying inside an experimental robot bomb—unloaded and instrumentless—during 1942 test flights.

She was seriously injured, said the radio, despite an emergency landing device affixed to the robot and despite her "extraordinary physiological characteristics."

The tests were designed to learn why the robots lost their wings after short flights, Berlin broadcast, and "Frau Reisch made the flights in a nearly horizontal position, gazing through a periscope. Her robot had no instruments, but was aimed to hit a target without human direction. After four days of tests the trouble was found but she was seriously injured."

Mrs. Reisch, said the radio, was a "biological phenomenon insensitive to pressure, who attained more than 500 miles an hour diving in gliders."

2 Indian Soldiers Get Victoria Cross

LONDON, July 28.—(CP)—The award of the Victoria Cross to two Indians—Jemadar Abdul Hafiz for gallantry in Burma and Sepoy Kamal Ram for gallantry in Italy—was announced in the London Gazette yesterday. These decorations brought to 94 the number of men given the Empire's highest gallantry award since the outbreak of war.

Jemadar Abdul Hafiz, who held a hill position ten miles from Imphal, led a fierce assault which chased the Japanese from their positions. Jemadar, who later died of his wounds, was cited for "inspiring leadership and great bravery, an example to all ranks which it would be difficult to equal."

Sepoy Kamal Ram of the 8th Punjab Regiment, who won his V.C. in Italy, volunteered to silence a German machine-gun post, one of four holding up the Allied advance across the river Gari.

CCF Leader Gives Version Landeryou Case

OTTAWA, July 28.—(CP)—CCF Leader Coldwell today gave the Commons his version of the expulsion of J. C. Landeryou, Social Credit candidate in the Alberta elections, from Mr. Coldwell's meeting at Lethbridge, Alta., recently, and a tense moment passed off in laughter when Agriculture Minister Gardiner, one of the smallest men in the house, said if he wanted anyone thrown out of a meeting he would do it himself.

"The incident as reported in the newspapers was an entire distortion of what occurred," said Mr. Coldwell, speaking on a question of privilege.

He said he had been speaking about the growth of racial animosity in Canada and referred to remarks made in the house by Norman Jacques (SC—Wetaskin), when Mr. Landeryou called out "That's a lie."

ASKED TO WITHDRAW

Mr. Coldwell said he again quoted from Mr. Jacques speech and Mr. Landeryou repeated his charge.

He then told Mr. Landeryou to withdraw his statement or leave the meeting, and sat down. After a full minute the chairman rose and gave Mr. Landeryou another five seconds to withdraw. When he did not the ushers without any violence, escorted Mr. Landeryou from the hall. Outside, Mr. Landeryou became abusive and one man struck him.

Thomas Reid (L—New Westminster) raised a point of order and said Mr. Coldwell had no right to discuss an incident outside parliament on a question of privilege.

Speaker Glen said Mr. Coldwell was in his rights as the incident had been mentioned in the House. Mr. Coldwell was continuing his speech when Mr. Gardiner rose with another point of order.

SAID "TYPICAL"

"This incident is typical of dozens of incidents put on by the CCF all over this country," he said. "I've been called a liar at least 20 times by CCF organizers. They are simply getting a little of their own back."

Mr. Coldwell said if anyone called him a liar in a meeting when he was telling the truth that person had to withdraw and he was surprised Mr. Gardiner would not take the same stand.

"The Liberal party to which I belong has never organized storm troops to throw people out of meetings in western Canada," said Mr. Gardiner.

"If I want anybody thrown out of my meetings I will throw them out myself."

OTTAWA, July 28.—(CP)—Tight control on the sale of electric fans was announced yesterday by the Prices Board under a new order which becomes effective Friday and restricts their purchase to those to be used in hospitals, industrial establishments, on naval or cargo vessels or for the use of the armed forces. By Artillery, Planes Three Attempted Attacks On Canadian Line Broken

By WILLIAM STEWART

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE, July 28.—(CP)—Three fresh enemy counter-attack attempts between dawn and early evening yesterday were broken up in front of the Canadian line from St. Andre Sur Orne to the Tilly La Campagne area, south and southwest of Caen.

Two of them were discovered as enemy infantry and small groups of tanks started to form up before dawn and were dealt with by tremendous artillery concentrations. A third in the late afternoon quickly became the target of rocket-firing Typhoons and Spitfires.

None of the enemy counter-attacks believed aimed at narrow sections of the front to the east of the Orne river, was given any chance to get organized.

WEATHER CLOUDY

Cloudy weather with brief showers over this front had little effect on air activity and although Typhoons and Spitfires flew fewer sorties than on Wednesday, there was no time during the day when none were visible.

Enemy guns and mortars fired fewer rounds into the Canadian lines than for several days and after the early morning barrage, disrupting the German attack forces, the guns supporting the Canadians also were quieter for longer periods than usual.

Canadian ground troops, unable to move too far from their all trenches, watched with delight as Typhoons went through their manoeuvres, diving to let loose rockets among German armor and infantry. Some officers said the work of the Typhoons ranked almost with mail from home as a morale booster.

Nippon Destroyer, Other Ships Sunk

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(AP)—A Japanese destroyer, an oiler, a destroyer escort or minelayer, seven small cargo ships and many smaller craft were sunk by American carrier-based planes in a series of attacks in the western Caroline islands, the navy reported last night.

With the American attack on the Japanese inner circle of outposts being maintained at a fast tempo, the navy also announced that American marines now control the northern one-third of Tinian island, including Mount Lasso, the island's commanding height.

Aerial support is being extended the marines by fighters based on Saipan, neighboring island in the Marianas chain.

American casualties on Tinian as of July 25 were 159 killed in action, 441 wounded and 32 missing.

Enemy dead totalling 2,089 have been counted, and 62 Japanese troops have been taken prisoner. Eighty civilians have been interned.

The Japanese naval base at Truk also came in for a pounding, 79 tons of bombs being dropped on it by heavy bombers.

No restrictions are placed on the manufacture, sale or delivery of repair or replacement parts.

Charters of 2 Quebec Banks Are Extended

OTTAWA, July 28.—(CP)—The Commons Banking committee today passed the bill to amend the Quebec Savings Bank act, extending the charters of two savings banks in that province for 10 years.

The bill changed the name of La Caisse d'Economie de Notre Dame de Quebec to La Banque d'Economie de Quebec. The name of the other bank is the Montreal City and District Savings bank.

Other changes made by the bill reduced the par value of the shares of the two banks from $100 to $10, the same change as was inserted in the Charters of Banks bill.

The requirement that a director in either bank must hold $10,000 in stock in that bank was reduced to $5,000.

In the past the savings banks invested their funds in Dominion, provincial, municipal, church, school and such type of bonds.

INDUSTRIAL INVESTMENT

The banks by the bill are permitted to invest a part of their funds in the better type of industrial bonds, while maintaining 70 per cent of their funds in Dominion and provincial bonds.

Taggart Smyth, general manager of the Montreal savings branch, said his bank had been operating since 1846, and its stock was selling at $300 and paid dividends at the rate of 10 per cent plus two per cent bonus for the past 19 years on the $100 par value.

The bank loans only to its depositors and insists on gilt-edge collateral. The rates of interest charged on loans to customers was four per cent when backed by Dominion bonds and up to five per cent on other bonds. Losses had been few and far between.

The bank did not enter into the commercial loan field. It catered to the small personal loans of its depositors.

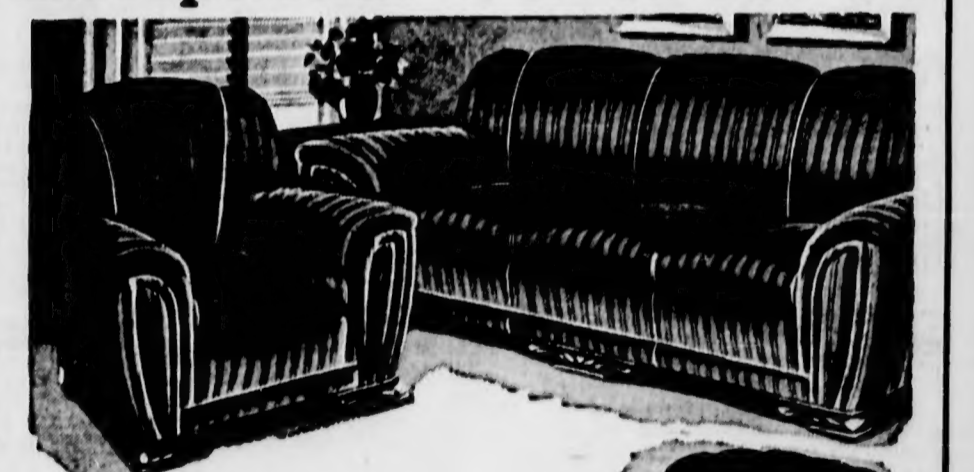

The bank had an inner reserve in that it listed the securities it holds at somewhat below the market value, Mr. Smyth said.

A caterpillar has four times as many muscles as a human being.

Repudiating Mr. Ilsley

Prime Minister Mackenzie King's address to the House of Commons on the necessity for family allowances was a masterpiece of logic. Speaking to a bill that enjoyed the unanimous support of all parties in the House, he said that the crying need of the country was PURCHASING POWER FOR THOSE WHO NEED IT.

When he said that he accepted in full the principle that the rights of humanity come first.

What an unfortunate thing it is that the Prime Minister did not carry out the spirit of this same enunciation made to the electors in 1935 and which received the greatest endorsement ever given a political party—"make money your servant and not your master."

John Blackmore, leader of the ten Social Credit members in the House of Commons, should have been present when the Prime Minister made this speech. For Mr. Blackmore was ridiculed in the same manner as G. G. McGeer, K.C., Liberal member for Vancouver Burrard, and Arthur G. Slaght, K.C., Liberal member for Parry Sound, Ont., who have been pleading with the members of the House of Commons to break the private money monopoly and use The Bank of Canada to provide the necessary credit without interest instead of the toll gate interest debt claim system of borrowing from the chartered banks.

It is significant that the Prime Minister personally introduced this bill and not the Hon. J. L. Ilsley, minister of finance whose policy has produced three stunning defeats to the Liberal party in the past two years.

The significance of the Prime Minister's personal attention to this matter is this; that his statement repudiated everything Mr. Ilsley has said about monetary policy for the past five years.

It is to be hoped that Mr. King will be able to give still more time to domestic affairs in the future. This one instance is salutary.

The Convert

John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, boldly discards the Conservative part of his label and clings to the Progressive end of it. He must have been reading the Hansard reports of the debates in the Banking and Commerce Committee.

For he has accepted what G. G. McGeer, K.C., Liberal member for Vancouver Burrard, Arthur G. Slaght, K.C., Liberal member for Parry Sound, Ont., and the Social Credit members have been declaring—that the present, private money monopoly, with its inevitable, ever-increasing, interest-bearing debt, must be abolished.

These words of Mr. Bracken are potent words. They are chilling words. And the St. James Street—Bay Street backers of the Tory Party must have felt the chill. Indeed, it was the same chill they felt when the former prime minister, now Lord Bennett, went on the radio a few days before the polling in the 1935 election and repudiated his own policy of five years in office and, at the same time, repudiated his financial backers who had spent enormous sums to assure his election in 1930.

Mr. Bracken too, under the pressure of the tide of public opinion, has also belatedly joined the ranks of monetary reform.

Teacher Shortage

The official statement is made that the teacher shortage in Alberta is likely to become more serious in the next few months.

Reasons given for the shortage are these; that with many male teachers entering the armed forces and many female teachers entering matrimony, the replacements of new teachers are not enough to keep up the supply.

These are undoubtedly basic reasons. But there is another one quite as vital. And that is that whenever the labor market opens up attractive jobs that offer better salaries than the teaching profession, there is always an exodus from that profession. Indeed, the only reason there are any teachers available at all in these times is that so many of them are completely devoted to their work.

It is not good enough that the most vital profession in the community should be subject to the vagaries of industrial salary trends. The competition of industry, with inflated salaries, should not be able to affect the teacher supply at all. This competition should not deflect potential teachers from their chosen profession.

There is, of course, only one remedy. And that is to make salaries in the teaching profession commensurate with the importance of the work, to make teachers' remunerations large enough to protect the profession from industrial and commercial competition for labor.

Everyone knows this. And if the public wants to ensure the continuity of a good educational system, it must be prepared to pay the price.

CBC Management

The parliamentary radio committee has recommended to the House of Commons the appointment of a full-time salaried chairman for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The chairman would have full charge of policy while the general manager would have charge of administration.

It is a cumbersome proposal. There is no reason on earth why one man, as in private organizations, should not control both policy and administration.

If a general manager is not big enough to be entrusted with matters of policy, he should not be there at all. If a paid chairman does not know enough about radio practice to handle both administration and policy, he is obviously a dead weight.

The parliamentary committee should take its choice—chairman or general manager, with one man big enough to do the whole job.

This present disposition to split responsibility and secure an organization which will still leave room for the activities of career politicians in the authoritative jobs has been manifest all through the unhappy history of the CBC. It has created an uncertainty throughout the organization and an irresponsibility in some of the key employees. As a result, a number of parlor punks and pseudo-sophisticates have flooded into the vital offices of the CBC and that, in a nutshell, is what is the matter with it.

Above everything else the CBC bears the mark of immature and egocentric minds. Nasty-nice young men, with fantastic ideas and a contempt for everything that is not "progressive," are in control of the situation. Juvenility runs rampant.

What they require is one boss who knows his business. Splitting control of the organization under two heads will not secure that badly needed result.

Good Advice

With the remote possibility of an infantile paralysis epidemic in the offing, the provincial department of health gives excellent advice to the public. It is this;

Because the symptoms of infantile paralysis vary so greatly in kind and degree, every child who shows any sign of not being up to par physically should immediately be examined by a competent physician.

This advice should be heeded because parents are too likely to try out home remedies upon an ailing child. These are dangerous because the successful treatment of infantile paralysis depends upon applying the proper remedies to the patient in an early stage.

The department of health does not issue this advice because it believes there will be an epidemic but so that steps may be taken which will prevent an epidemic taking place.

Manning Social Credit Government To Be Returned

Independents Have Muffled Good Chance in Alberta Election

By Percy Manning (Daily Province Staff Correspondent) in The Vancouver Daily Province

CALGARY: How is the Alberta election going on August 8? "I don't know and I strongly doubt that anyone knows."

Even amid all the enthusiasm—and they grow like the wild mustard in the green wheat—it is hard to find so hard a prophet. But, I have found one man, not an enthusiast, who thinks he knows.

He thinks that Premier Manning and his Social Credit government are going back to office again.

For a number of reasons, this man must be anonymous.

But just as all Worcestershire sauce, "the original and only genuine," along with all the lesser varieties, is "from the recipe of a nobleman of the county," this forecast, here he cited, is veritably from the horse's mouth.

I am reliably assured that no one in all Alberta is better informed than my informant. He was sometime a very well-known minister of the crown.

He thinks the government is going to win, and he gives you his reasons.

And, of course, this being Alberta, and this being, so to speak, only the day after the event of Saskatchewan, he speaks with two of his fingers crossed and all of them touching wood, as befits any politician anywhere in Canada, in these strange and truly unpredictable times.

First of all, my informant thinks the government is going to win because of what amounts to the default of the old party men, who are joined in this fight as Independents.

Although they polled 43 per cent of the total vote in the 1940 election, although they elected 19 members in a House of 57, my authority doubts whether the Independents can elect as many as six in this election. At the very best, he thinks they may get six or seven; at the worst, no more than three or four.

"Also Ran"

The Independents only missed winning the last election by a matter of 3,000 votes out of a total 300,000, and my knowledgeable friend concedes them no possible chance of winning this one.

How did they get that way? Some of it is an old story and some of it is a painful one. It is written at large, my informant insists, in the present defeatist attitude of the Independents and their nominal supporters.

He says they have muffed their chances in the Legislature, failed to produce a convincing leadership, given too much the impression that they have not known their own minds and do not know it today.

He says they were caught unaware by this election and should not have been. They have come to it too obviously a party without cohesion in search of a leader, a policy and a program. The so-called Independents of Alberta are still cursed, in this view, with the old Liberal-Conservative jealousy which began at Ottawa and spreads like blight in the wheat over all the country.

Not Ready

"They ought to have seen this election coming and they ought to have been ready and they didn't see it and they aren't ready," says my informant.

"Here we were, with the new political opportunities born of better times, with wonderful crops and prosperity for our farmers, and the growing threat of the CCF, it ought not to have been necessary for Saskatchewan to hit them between the eyes."

The Independents, says my informant, are not helped by the advice they are getting in the house of their friends—to make sure of keeping the CCF out by throwing their surplus votes to the government party.

Winning Attitude

That, he insists, is not the winning state of mind for a political party on election day.

This, for what it is worth, is a statement of the reasons why the Independents in the Alberta election will lose.

But how is it a statement of the reasons why the Social Crediters should win, of why they might even go back as my informant suggests they may, with more than the 33 seats in the House that they held at dissolution?

Well, largely stated, my friend's belief is that the people of Alberta, and especially the farmers, are not yet ready to put the Social Crediters out in order to put in an untried party of promises like the CCF.

Perhaps, as he suggests, they give the Social Crediters credit for more than they deserve—but, undoubtedly they give them credit in ways that spell votes on election day.

"They" have, in theory, largely forgotten the broken promises of the Social Credit evangel of the social dividend and $25 a month for everybody, and what not.

Or, if they haven't forgotten, then they say that the Social Crediters would have delivered the goods if they had not been stopped by Ottawa and the courts.

"Then," says my friend, "you have the people, townsmen and farmers, oh, lots of them, who are going to vote for Social Credit in this election for the first time. They may not forget that the Social Crediters have not kept their promises, but they think that voting Social Credit this time is the only way to keep up the CCF."

"And don't forget," he says, "that Manning is proving himself a better leader than Abernethy. He doesn't make as many enemies. He still makes the old formal objections to the doctrine of Social Credit, but he is worrying very little about it in his practical politics."

"Yes," he admits, "I may be under-estimating the psychology created by the extraordinary CCF landslide in Saskatchewan. It's frankly amazing the number of people who tell me they are voting CCF. But, don't forget that Alberta is not Saskatchewan, in ways that are bound to count in the result of this election. We are not a one-crop province here. We have had bad times here, but we never saw the misery in Alberta they saw in Saskatchewan."

"The events of those terrible years, 1930 to 1932, went down into the very marrow of the Saskatchewan farmer as, with all our troubles, it did not here. The droughts in succeeding years, the dropping of wheat production from 18 to 6 bushels to the acre—and wheat at 30 cents a bushel."

"Why, Saskatchewan was made to order for the CCF."

"And don't forget the business of leadership. Saskatchewan is the home of the two principal CCF leaders, Coldwell and Douglas."

"The picture is that Alberta is not as good a field for the CCF as Saskatchewan. Ideologically and temperamentally, a lot of the people who would be natural converts for the CCF movement have already gone off the deep end into the embrace of the Social Crediters. "And, practically, what the Social Crediters may lose to the CCF may easily be more than made up by what they will gain from the Independents."

"But," says my informant with a final touch on wood, "I may be utterly wrong. I think the government is going to gain but, much as I wish I could, I can't altogether count the CCF out."

As to which, as Alberta seems to be saying, "You're telling us."

The Test of Bretton Woods

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The conference of Bretton Woods is now in sight of final agreement on international currency stabilization and is grappling with the equally essential project of an international lending organization. If both projects are realized, and if they are approved by the governments or parliaments of the negotiating nations, the world will have removed one of the chief dams in the flow of trade and prosperity.

For beneath all the confusing technical discussions, the purpose of the monetary conference at Bretton Woods is simple. It is to re-establish international trade, to enable goods to move freely throughout the world. Therein lies the only hope of curing unemployment here in Canada and everywhere.

The proposed monetary fund and the international lending authority, the objectives of the conference, the important though they are, are only mechanisms to make multilateral trade possible.

Equally essential is the removal of the existing barriers in the form of tariffs, quotas, subsidies and embargoes, for so long as these blocks remain in the stream of trade the stabilization of currencies and the extension of international loans cannot make trade flow.

Apart from the Bretton Woods conference, the negotiations on tariff are proceeding by way of direct discussions between the United States, the United Kingdom and Canada and have not yet reached the point where a conference on the Bretton Woods model is advisable. Logically, of course, the discussion of mechanism might have been expected to follow after the main trade negotiations. When questioned on this point in the House of Commons at Westminster, Lord Keynes explained that a beginning had to be made somewhere and since trade barriers, monetary fund and long-term lending are all aspects of a single problem, it did not matter which came first. Moreover, the chances of speedy agreement on the mechanisms, so called, seemed brighter than on direct trade barriers.

In some quarters, the fact that the cart, so to speak, has been placed before the horse is regarded as discouraging. This need not be so, provided it is clearly recognized that the nations of the world must fore-nesses" of French Canadians and must be resisted.

As the campaign developed, Mr. Godbout found himself accused of having betrayed his province by collaborating with Ottawa in the war. He has been repeatedly described as an "imperialist," a "betrayer" and a "conscriptorist."

Mr. Godbout, on July 9, countered by affirming his friendship with Mr. King and by declaring that if it were not for the Liberal Government at Ottawa, Quebec would have had conscription long ago. As it was, there had been no conscription for overseas service and farmers sons, where needed on the farm, were exempt from military service. He claimed that on his advice, the Ottawa authorities had agreed to deal lightly with draft dodgers, provided they reported. In his speech, Mr. Godbout was reported to have included army deserters with draft dodgers. Later, he corrected this statement, saying that he had not intended to refer to army deserters. In any case, the report of the speech, in this regard, was promptly contradicted at Ottawa.

Since July 9, Mr. Godbout's campaign, despite his best efforts, has been diverted from provincial issues and become centred on the war. He has replied to the attacks of the Bloc Populaire and the Union Nationale by accusing them of arousing racial and religious strife, or dividing the nation. Their speeches, he has asserted, are "vile, low and nefarious." He has denied that there has been any surrender of provincial rights to Ottawa. His government, he states, would have collaborated equally with any federal government in the prosecution of the war.

Mr. Godbout is now claiming for the Liberals of Quebec and the country-at-large that they have worked and are working for unity, the bonne entente, for mutual esteem between the two great races and other ethnic groups in the country.

"We must heartily accept the necessary sacrifices demanded of us," said Mr. Godbout July 12, at Montreal, "to maintain that unity, and I want to preach to my French Canadian compatriots the necessity of making the necessary sacrifices to maintain that unity."

Speaking at Epiphanie on July 16, Mr. Godbout said:

"At the present, you are asked to judge a provincial administration and it will change nothing in federal policies whatever may happen in Quebec on August 8. To preach disunion is the most criminal thing at the present time. All Canadians who served their country well are our brothers, no matter what their language or religion. To work towards the division of a country such as Canada, whose future will be found in the union of all Canadians, is a crime."

There are three chief parties contending for office in Quebec—the Liberal party under Mr. Godbout, the Union Nationale under Mr. Maurice Duplessis, and the Bloc Populaire under Andre Laurendeau. The CCF has put up a few candidates but is not an important factor in the contest. The Progressive Conservative party is not functioning as such at all and is not seeking directly to influence public opinion in the province. There are no Conservative candidates.

The Union Nationale, however, is a fusion of various political elements in which the chief is the Conservative party. Most Union Nationale candidates and supporters, including Mr. Duplessis, were at one time straight Conservatives.

It will be observed, therefore, that the cause of national unity and of co-operation in the war has but a single defender in Quebec—the Liberal party. Some of Mr. Godbout's statements have been questioned in English-speaking Canada but there is no doubt as to his position on the broad issue of national unity in the war. Nor has he put this on party grounds. He would, he says, have collaborated equally with any government in power at Ottawa.

Confusion Grows in Quebec

War Issues Crowding Out Provincial Affairs in Campaign

By GRANT DEXTER

OTTAWA: From the outset on June 28, the campaign in Quebec has tended to ignore provincial affairs and become increasingly concerned with issues directly related to the war.

In announcing the election, Mr. Godbout made a speech in which he surveyed provincial problems, gave the record of his government and advanced a program for the future.

Mr. Godbout dealt with provincial finance, aids to agriculture, colonization, farm loans, labor organization, social welfare, civil service reform, education, technical schools and so on.

His one reference to wider issues was a plea to his fellow Quebecers to shake off, to banish thoughts of economic inferiority, to resist the temptation to "draw into our shell."

Fanatical isolationists, he said, could only lead Quebec backwards. The province would lose ground, and if isolation were pursued far enough the result would be disastrous. The nationalists, he said, appeal to the "deadly, narrow spirit of the province."

This was one of the "congenial weaknesses" of French Canadians and must be resisted.

As the campaign developed, Mr. Godbout found himself accused of having betrayed his province by collaborating with Ottawa in the war. He has been repeatedly described as an "imperialist," a "betrayer" and a "conscriptorist."

Mr. Godbout, on July 9, countered by affirming his friendship with Mr. King and by declaring that if it were not for the Liberal Government at Ottawa, Quebec would have had conscription long ago. Watches Bureaucrats

By Percy Cater, London Daily Mail Parliamentary Correspondent.

Yielding gracefully to the demand of all parties, the British Government announced in the House of Commons the acceptance of a check on delegated legislation—a curb that may to some extent prevent bureaucratic-made laws going beyond the limits Parliament intended.

There is to be a "Scrutiny Committee" which will keep vigil for Parliament over rules and orders which ministers make when one may call "umbrella" legislation has been passed.

The watchdog committee will decide whether delegated powers have been carried out in the spirit of the original act, or whether there are features in any particular regulation which ought to be reported to the House of Commons.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW

By Jack DeLong

A LOT of small town baseball resulted in some big scoring when the Yanks smothered the Arrows under an 18-8 score at Renfrew Park Thursday evening.

Now everybody stood it as well as they did is a tribute to the stamina of Edmonton baseball fans. Saddest thing about the debacle was that it could have been a pretty interesting game of baseball.

There was plenty of lusty pill punishing on the part of the batsmen of both teams, the Yanks rapping out 19 safe bingles while the losers were able to amass a total of 12 base hits. Fans like to see a lot of hitting even if it is disturbing and humiliating to the pitchers.

It was the fielding, or rather the lack of fielding, that made of the contest a farce.

And the Arrows must be charged with the responsibility of playing most of the sloppy baseball afield. There's no sense in pulling punches. Infielders and outfielders alike looked very bad all through the game. The best fielders in the world will miscue now and then but to boot grounders with good "handles" right and left on the infield, and let fly balls bounce out of gloves time and again on seemingly easy catches in the outer garden, makes pretty pathetic visualizing, for the customers.

On top of all that one of the players selected the occasion to argue the point on scoring rules with the occupants of the press box.

SOME GOOD ADVICE

In tones more restrained than his conduct warranted, perhaps, this player was told it might be best if everybody stuck with his own job, the "ball players" with the ball playing while the scribes went ahead with the business of recording the happenings according to whatever skill and understanding two or three decades spent at such puttering around may have given them.

About the best thing about last night's ball game is that it's all over.

According to published accounts there are vague whisperings and murmurings in and around our fair city among the knights and ladies of the racquet to the effect that a provincial tennis tournament is in order.

According to the story all the boys and all the girls who play tennis in and around the town are very anxious to stage a provincial net tournament and the only thing that's need to have this come to pass is for some of the provincial tennis association big wigs to snap on the green light.

Lack of tennis balls has been the main reason why tennis has not flourished on a provincial or dominion competitive basis since Pearl Harbor, we are informed, and some of the tennis addicts tell us that you just don't buy tennis balls and more.

We were told that one large city sporting goods store will sell you one or two tennis balls every time you purchase a racquet worth $18.50.

We are also informed that most other stores are in the same way and you just don't play tournament tennis without new balls and a lot of same.

Joins Navy At Winnipeg

North American Chess Champ Wants to See World as Tar

WINNIPEG, July 28.—(CP)—A master strategist, Abe Yanofsky, 19-year-old chess champion of North America, has already seen a good part of the world, but now he wants a different view of it—in action with Canadian naval forces.

Abe, who enlisted in the navy this week as an ordinary seaman, will be called for duty to H.M.S. Chippawa, Winnipeg's navy headquarters, next month.

"They say you see the world when you're in the navy, so I'm going to take them up on it."

He'll be happy as long as he sees action on foreign soil, but there is one department where strategy counts—gunnery—and he'd like to be there.

Yanofsky, who made his first impression on the chess world at 11, started manipulating chessmen while other boys were still playing gang busters.

It wasn't long until he was playing in international tournaments, climaxed two years ago at Dallas, Texas, when he took the North American championship from Rueben Fine of Washington. Last year, for the second consecutive time, he took the Canadian championship, and for the sixth time the Manitoba title.

He has not neglected his studies, and he found chess was an aid in the class rooms.

"As soon as I started playing, I moved to first in the class—before that I used to come somewhere around fourth," he grinned.

He received his Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Manitoba this year, and after the war he'd like to study medicine, perhaps at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore. "I'd like to specialize in psychiatry."

SENIOR BOYS CHAMP AT 11

At 11 years old, Abe was senior boys champion of Canada, but one of his never-to-be-forgotten moments came at the age of 14 when with four of Canada's outstanding players, he sailed for the international world championship in Buenos Aires.

"The trip took three months and it was something you just don't forget in a hurry," he said.

The Canadian team missed the finals, but the Winnipeg wizard came home with an engraved medal, emblematic of the highest tournament score.

Abe isn't the only chess player in the family. At 16 his "kid brother" has held the city championship for two years. "And he's just starting," Abe beamed proudly.

Classified I-A

BOSTON, July 28.—(AP)—Three Boston Braves passed their physical examinations Thursday and were classified I-A in the draft.

They are Stanley Kloppe, right-handed relief pitcher; Max Maxon, a former pitcher who has been playing first base; and Chet Ross, an outfielder.

Connie Rysa, all-star second baseman, went into the navy Tuesday and centre fielder Tommy Holmes, one of the league's leading batters, is awaiting a navy call.

Sailors Stave Off Rally

Nonsuch Downs Moose 7-5

H.M.C.S. Nonsuch staved off a Moose rally in the ninth inning Thursday night to triumph 7-5 in the opening game of the best of three northern Alberta fastball semi-final, at Kingsway Park. Second game of this series will be played on Saturday night.

The Navy men clinched the fixture in the eighth with three runs on two errors, a bunt and doubles by Ken Cox and Vic Falkenberg, but Moose pushed across two in the last and had the tying runs on base when the Sailors managed to retire the side.

Ken McAuley, first up for Moose in the ninth, walked, advanced to second on Alex Yack's single to left field, moved around when George Sebastian fled out and then came in along with Yack on pinch-hitter Manny Fefferman's safely to left field. Fefferman reached second when Jack Beaumeister got on base on an error. Both runners then advanced on a wild pitch, but Leo Cherot fled out to short field for the third out, leaving Fefferman and Beaumeister stranded.

Al Young was on the mound for the Tars again last night, and let Moose club down with six safeties while the winners collected a total of nine hits off two Moose chuckers.

Ken Cox was the big man at the plate when he banged out two doubles and a single in four trips to lead the Navy attack.

Twilight Sculling At Henley Regatta

SAINT CATHARINES, Ont., July 28.—(CP)—The Canadian Association of amateur oarsmen set a precedent here last night when they held twilight sculling for the first time in the 62 years of racing in the Royal Canadian Henley regatta.

Three events were run off, the last finishing in dusk. They were two junior 145-pound eight heats and the high school fours with cox. The winner and runner-up of each heat in the eights qualified for the final today. The Ecorse, Mich., eight won the first heat. The time was 6:40.

In the second heat, Hamilton, Ont., leaders nosed in front an open length over Detroit, who had four open lengths on St. Catharines. Winning time was 6:40 2/5.

In the third event last night—the high school fours with cox—Ecorse finished a quarter open length over their neighboring Crosse Pointe four. Time for the three-quarter-mile race was 4:03.

Wigwagging and heliographing, utilizing reflected flashes of sunlight were among man's earliest systems of signalling.

Yanks Blast Arrows 18-8 In Wide Open Ball Game

By DON KILLIPS

WHAT went on at Renfrew Park Thursday night might have been baseball, but a lot of fans would give you an argument. The score was more like that of a country cricket match or a basketball game when the league leading Yanks made the most of a golden opportunity to fatten their batting averages in blasting the Arrows with 19 hits, including a homer by Doug Roush, for an easy 18-8 victory.

It was anything but good ball and just half of a total of 26 counters, which should come close to a park record for total runs in a single game, were scored. Nine unearned runs by the winning club, in addition to four by the losers, speak for themselves.

The Yanks banged out a total of 19 safeties alright, but the hitting wasn't all one-sided. The Arrows came up with 12, which added to the winners' 19 counts up to 31, a total that would be big in any league.

No fewer than five chuckers paraded to the mound, three for Arrows—Morris Hawkey, Bill Gault and Bob Weiss—and two for Yanks—Johnny Gray and Al Walker.

Although he received very poor support from his team-mates, Hawkey wasn't winning form and allowed eight runs and 10 hits in the five innings he worked, and was charged with the loss. Gray wasn't giving out with any of his Sunday best either, but was hurling good enough to win last night's game. He gave way to Walker in the last inning, but received credit for the win.

Two singles and a double by Ken Samis sent Fred Lupul around the sacks in the first inning to give the Arrows the lead right at the start.

Yanks got one back in the third on two singles and then added another in the fourth. The Arrows were putting up a pretty fair game through the first four frames, but six hits—one being Roush's homer to centre field that drove in Manu Dorsky—two errors and a wild pitch in the fifth session amounted to six Army runs. This was the breaking point, and from then on the Yanks increased their lead in every inning.

It was a big night for Ralph Schumacher, who batted safely in three of his four times. He banged out two singles and a double and drove in a pair of runs.

Catcher Ken Samis of the Arrows also boosted his batting average with three safeties, including a nice two-bagger in the first inning that drove in Lupul, in five tries with the stick.

The Arrows had the old fighting spirit, however, and didn't give up. They were 16-2 going into the eighth, but played with great determination and came up with three Yanks added a pair in the bottom half of the ninth.

Pete Meyers went around the bases easy in the fourth for the Yanks on what should have been a single. He hit safely to centre field, but Matheson erred on the play and allowed the ball to roll under the centre field bleachers, giving him the round trip.

Following is the box score:

NEW YORK, July 28.—The cause of Fritz Ostermuller—cause celebre of those who wish to unionize baseball players—gained strength Wednesday night as the 36-year-old southpaw was credited with his sixth victory with the Pittsburgh Pirates, against two defeats.

Leon Fritz, whom Branch Rickey of the gasping Brooklyn Dodgers tried to ride out of the major leagues on the waiver rail, added another bullet to the interested C.I.O.'s ammunition as the Pirates regained second place in the National League flag race with a 6-5 victory over the New York Giants.

Although Ostermuller, now in his 10th season or major league play, was removed in the ninth inning, he earned the victory with which he was credited despite poor fielding support. Third baseman Bob Elliott, for example, made three costly errors; and Buddy Kerr's home run in the eighth took a questionable bounce right over Jim Russell's head.

SIXTH WIN AS PIRATE
REGARDLESS of manager Mel Ott's stormy but futile protest against the final out of Phil Weintraub, who claimed that the pitch had hit his foot instead of the bat, Ostermuller was credited with his sixth Pittsburgh victory since joining the Corsairs in early June—six victories that the tail-end Dodgers could have used like canisters of ice water for a parched and expiring prospect in Death Valley.

President Rickey of the bomb-shelter Dodgers made use of the grotesque and toothless waiver clause to get rid of Ostermuller on June 1, just five weeks before veteran Fritz was to have become a "ten-year man" in the majors—a distinction that would have prevented his being sent back to the minors, except as a free agent who could make his own terms and demand his own bonus for signing with a minor club.

Ostermuller and pitcher Bill Lohrman were waived out of the National League and sent to Syracuse by Rickey in exchange for outfielder Rosen. Ostermuller refused to report at Syracuse. Immediately, Frankie Frisch, shrewd pilot of the Pirates, negotiated with Leo Miller, shrewd general manager of the Syracuse club, who sold rebellious Ostermuller to the Pirates for a reported $15,500 instead of the $7,500 waiver price.

RICKEY FAILS
AT that time, Rickey's attempt to railroad Ostermuller out of the majors—just five weeks before he became a 10-year-man—caused indignation among most players in organized ball. Ostermuller had the courage to telephone Commissioner Landis, explaining his reluctance to report to Syracuse. Landis, we understand, backed him in his attitude.

Meanwhile, the C.I.O., which has been investigating possibilities of unionizing ball players, became particularly interested in the Ostermuller case. And as Ostermuller performed nobly for the Pirates with his fastball, curves, sliders, take-offs, change-ups, etc., in winning work-horse fashion, he gave the C.I.O. something to shout about—when the time is ripe. That time will be when the regime of Landis ends, possibly next year.

Despite the abuses of the waiver clause, most ball players have confidence in Landis, who generally has protected their rights, but when ancient Kenesaw steps down from his post because of age—then the C.I.O. will try to step in, and the Ostermuller case will be mighty important in its campaign.

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

By SYD THOMAS

TORONTO, July 28.—(CP)—One of the last strongholds of the old-fashioned amateurism in sportdom is found in the realm of paddling, rowing and similar aquatic sports, opines Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara.

The paddlers and rowers for the most part are in the game just for the fun they get out of it, which is payment enough. Then, too, there's a more potent reason in the fact that the sport hasn't any great spectator appeal and you can't get large crowds to turn out for a regatta and roll large quantities of money through the ticket office. They're staged in the open, and the people who attend usually are relatives and friends of the contestants, or citizens who want to spend a lazy afternoon in the sun and fresh air.

Paddling has been hit harder by the war than perhaps any other sport, and the ranks have been thinned almost to the vanishing point. Those carrying on now are mainly youths under military age, but they're getting plenty of fun out of it and putting on some keen competitions in the localities where they still flourish.

INCIDENTALLY:

Oshawa Generals are starting to build for next winter already. They've thrown out a line to Jackie Gibson, goalkeeper with St. James Canadians in Winnipeg last winter. They also are seeking Harry Taylor of the same squad.

Soccer is being revived in Windsor, Ont., after a lull of several years. They're talking of the "finest league in the Dominion" now. When Los Angeles defeated San Diego in a Pacific Coast baseball loop some the other night they had a former Toronto battery in action—Dick Conger on the mound and Eddie Fernandez receiving. The recent Regina race meet grossed $295.30, which works out to about a dollar a day from resident of the city. It was also a 30 per cent increase over last season. Winnipeg high school football teams won't play more than seven games this fall, because past experience shows the youngsters can't stand the strain of a 10- or 12-game season.

The knee, not the heel is the most vulnerable spot in the modern athlete.

CALGARY, July 28.—(CP)—The total staked during the seven-day Calgary Exhibition and Stampede this year was $475,969—more than double the $219,272 staked last year and greatly in excess of the total for any year in Stampede history, officials announced Thursday.

Of the total staked, the provincial government received 5 per cent—$23,798.45. The federal government received an identical amount while the Exhibition company, which operated the mutuels, received 7 per cent—$33,313.33. Thus bettors received back 83 per cent of what they bet.

Power, announcing the award, said the exploit was the most recent of a series which had been accompanied "by heavy losses of aircraft and crews." He did not elaborate.

Hornell knew of these losses when he headed his plane into the smother of flak being hurled at him from the sub. His V.C. citation told of his gallant attack when he pointed the nose of the big lumbering Canoe flying boat at the target.

CHARGES HIT MARK

Even though his craft was badly disabled as the U-boat flak hit again and again, he managed to drop his depth charges right on the mark. The submarine lifted out of the water, spilling members of its crew overboard.

The citation also described how Hornell skillfully brought the limping, flaming plane down in a gale-lashed sea near the Arctic Circle rim and how, even near his death, he had to be restrained from attempting a dangerous swim to retrieve a badly-needed float. He was the last of the three airmen to die of exposure.

The citation concluded: "By pressing home a skillful and successful attack against fierce opposition, with his aircraft in precarious condition, and by fortifying and encouraging his comrades in the subsequent ordeal, this officer displayed valor and devotion to duty of the highest order."

Bloc Populaire Win in Quebec Blow to Canada

VANCOUVER, July 22.—(CP)—"Victory of the Bloc Populaire in the August election in Quebec provinces would be a blow to Canada," Flt. Lt. James Sinclair, Liberal member of parliament for North Vancouver, said in an address here last night to the Canadian Legion, new veterans' branch.

"A Fascist government would come into power while the country is fighting Fascism abroad," he said.

The answer to the "French-Canadian problem" was not in isolating Quebec from the rest of Canada, but in educating French Canadians to their responsibilities, Flt. Lt. Sinclair said.

PEONS OF CANADA

French Canadians were "the Peons of Canada" and a "smouldering resentment" at low wages and abuse of low-paid laborers was at the core of the situation in Quebec. This resentment was kept alive by French-Canadian politicians, he said.

All persons of Japanese origin should be deported after the war because they could not be assimilated into Canadian life. There is no hope of becoming Canadians while they continue to have dual citizenship.

Flt. Lt. Sinclair termed Canada's home defence army "the scrapings and dregs of those conscripted, because every man with an ounce of courage has volunteered for overseas service."

"I cannot imagine what conceivable use they would have for the zombies overseas," he added.

MOTTO FOR DRAFTEES

Soldiers who had not volunteered for active service were useful in doing home chores and thereby releasing other men for active service. The motto for draftees should be patterned after that of the women's services—"Be conscripted and release a man for overseas service," Flt. Lt. Sinclair said.

Hemaley Will Be Inducted Aug. 8

CLEVELAND, July 22.—(AP)—Rollie Hemaley, New York Yankee's first-string catcher, reported he received formal notification from his St. Louis, Mo., draft board Thursday that he would be inducted into the army Aug. 8. Hemaley, 37, was classified 1-A by his board in the spring and took his physical examination last month.

Thieves Take Purse, Radio Police Report

City police were investigating Friday a series of thefts. Over Thursday at least two premises were entered while a car radio and all accessories were removed from a parked auto.

Entering the unlocked rear door of the Mandarin Silk Shop, 10233 Jasper avenue, about 4:15 p.m. Thursday, a thief helped himself to a purse and contents, the property of Miss Mary Chan of Vancouver. Contents of the bag included $43 in cash, national registration certificate, fountain pen and pencil set, cosmetics and keys to the store.

Miss Chan had left her purse on a table at the living quarters at the rear of the store while she waited on some customers. Eddie Marr, proprietor of the shop stated. After serving them she returned to the living quarters and discovered her loss.

For the second time within a month, the home of David S. Bain, 9836 99 street, was forcibly entered Wednesday night and a fountain pen and some fruit stolen. Investigators questioned a number of juveniles in the district, all of whom denied any knowledge of the offense, it was stated.

Radio, aerial and all attachments were removed from his parked car sometime Friday night. Alfred Luma, 11612 82 street, told police early Friday. The auto was parked outside his residence at the time, he said.

Police Informed Man Is Missing

Peace River Area Has Fire Hazard

No serious forest fire outbreaks have occurred in Alberta this week. T. F. Biegan, provincial director of forestry, said Friday.

North of the Peace River, large areas of bush are still dry, and rain is needed badly to reduce fire hazard there. Early in the summer, large outbreaks raged out of control in this area, but have been fought to a standstill and only ground fires remain. Rain is needed to extinguish them, as they constitute a potential danger if a windstorm struck the area.

Forest rangers were busy Friday checking smoke conditions in the Smoky River district. Heavy smoke is reported in the area, but is thought to have been caused by Indians.

Farm Instructor Retires From Post

Herbert Goodland, who for 21 years has been farm instructor for boys' work at the United Church Indian school, 10 miles north of Edmonton, is retiring from active service.

He was born in Birkenhead, England, and came to Canada with his parents when he was six years old. They settled in Wellington County, Ontario. In 1898 he came west to Brandon and in 1900 he took up the work of instructor of boys' work in the Indian school there, under the principalship of the late Thompson Furrier. He married Marjorie Broughton, of Parker, Ont., in 1903. They have one daughter, Mrs. V. W. Oke, of Calgary. They moved to Edmonton in 1923 where Mr. Goodland continued his farm instruction work.

A member of the Wesley United Church, Canadian Club, and farm branch of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Goodland insists he is "not really retiring but just resigning from active Indian work." He and Mrs. Goodland are leaving for Chilliwack, B.C., on Aug. 1, where they will reside.

Great Interest Being Taken in Alberta Election

There is a very great interest being taken in the forthcoming general election in Alberta and those attending meetings are asking innumerable questions that would indicate they are thinking deeply on the issues involved in the campaign. Harold C. Winch, M.L.A., Vancouver, leader of the CCF party in British Columbia, stated on his arrival here Friday to address a meeting at the Masonic Temple.

He is the only member of a father and son team in any legislature in Canada. His father was first elected to the British Columbia legislature in the 1933 general election for the Burrard riding. The same year his son was elected for the next-door constituency of Vancouver East. They have been elected in each succeeding general election with increased majorities.

Mr. Winch said that questions asked by members of the audience at meetings he has addressed since coming to Alberta dealt with the allocation of power to the province and Dominion under the British North America Act; the possibilities of change of war to peacetime employment, and a sincere desire to get information concerning the CCF program.

He said another feature of the meetings was the attendance of members of the armed forces. He added that this attendance was not confined to the rank and file, but was made up to a marked degree by officers.

Mr. Winch said that a remarkable circumstance about this election, unlike that of Saskatchewan, was that despite the keen interest the people were not discussing election issues on the streets.

There had been a remarkable growth in the membership of the CCF in the province. Asked if the result of the Saskatchewan election had accelerated this growth, Mr. Winch said it had not. The growth had resulted from the thoughtful consideration of the party's platform and its acceptance by those affiliating with the party.

Mr. Winch, answering a question regarding the criticism of the invasion by CCF leaders, said he had not met with any such criticism. His experience, he added, had been the reverse. "A cordial welcome has been extended at all my meetings, and all of them have been the best attended meetings I have ever had in Alberta," Mr. Winch stated.

Members of the band will fall in at 22:15 hours in the No. 4 I.T.S. drill hall.

Elderly Chinese Early Morning Assault Victim

Mah Dick, 67-year-old Chinese cafe employee, of 10028 102 street, was in the Royal Alexandra hospital Friday, suffering from head wounds as the result of an attack by an assailant who was described as a young man. The attack took place about 1:35 a.m., as Dick was about to enter the Charlie Chin laundry.

Dick, who received two severe head cuts, was found by police who took him to hospital, where five stitches were necessary to close one of the cuts, and four more to close the other.

It was stated by Dick that he had left his place of employment, and was about to enter the laundry when he was accosted by a man between 18 and 20 years old.

USED IMPLIMENT
The latter asked for a drink and after being told there was nothing at the laundry to drink, struck the Chinaman with a piece of iron or hardwood, according to police.

The injured man had received some attention from a relative who came when he heard the older man's cry. The assailant, officers were told, fled after the older man had fallen to the ground and began shouting.

Investigations are continuing.

Owner of the auto, Thomas W. Duguid, 10972 124 street, who was not in the car at the time, told police he came out of a store nearby almost immediately after the accident, and took the boy to hospital. The youth said he had misjudged his distance as he was about to pass the car and crashed into the rear of it.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION
What is your reaction to the announcement by the provincial government that there is ample reserve moisture for Alberta crops this year?

THE ANSWERS
HAROLD MARTIN, clerk: That is a reassuring statement. With ever-increasing demands for foodstuffs for Allied nations and liberated areas it is good to know that there will be no shortage of grain in this part of the country.

FRANK TIMOTHY, salesman: Judging from appearances here today there will be not only ample reserve but a surplus. However, crops are forming an increasingly important part of the Allied war effort, and it is comforting to know any damage to the crops will not result from lack of moisture.

JIM BELL, trucker: There is no doubt it is a helpful and comforting thought to know that there is enough moisture to insure a good crop.

Exhibition of Handicrafts By Canadian Prisoners

There are more than 3,000 Canadian prisoners of war in Europe and the Far East at the present time. A large proportion of these young Canadians are scattered through 47 camps or "stalags" in the Reich, one Hungarian camp and at least 11 camps in the Far East.

What the prisoners do with their time, their recreation and their jobs are of interest to relatives and friends back home. According to reports received from the camps, recreational facilities vary with each camp. Prisoners in labor detachments have little time or energy for leisure activities, and those in officers' camps who are not required to work are putting their time to good use.

Sports organized in various camps include football, swimming, cricket, volleyball, softball, basketball and skating. The International YMCA administers religious and recreational services. Many prisoners have become interested in painting, wood carving and drawing. Some even have become enamoured of cooking, sewing, knitting, crocheting and embroidery.

1,000 ENTRIES

In one camp an exhibition with more than 1,000 entries included tapestries, painting, drawing, glove work, wood carving, a large couch cover knit from old sweater and sock wool, a hassock cover and a small regimental "adge carved from a piece of aluminum, complete in every detail.

Life in these camps is controlled by the Geneva Convention of 1929. The terms of this convention stipulate that prisoners of war may be given work provided that it is not directly connected with the prosecution of the war.

PRISONERS EMPLOYED

In German, many Canadian prisoners are employed according to their aptitudes and skills, in stone quarries, on river work, unloading cement, brick laying, electrical work, lumbering, agriculture, tailoring, railway plate laying, freight loading, and in saw mills, paper factories, sugar beet factories and coal mines. Many are employed by civilians. They work on farms for nine to 10 hours for which they receive a fixed rate of work pay.

Almost every camp has well-organized educational courses with the Canadian Legion Educational Services serving as the official agency for the dissemination of material. Until the end of 1943, 334 educational courses had been sent to the camps. Certain minimum standards of health and the medical inspection of prisoners at least once a month have been provided for in the Geneva convention. Stipulation is also made that each camp must have an infirmary. These provisions appear to have been complied with in Germany.

Paintings on View In Senate Hall

The summer exhibition of paintings by the Alberta Society of Artists opened Friday in the senate hall of the University of Alberta. The exhibition has returned from the Calgary Stampede and is on view here until the end of August.

Cora T. Casselman To Be Speaker At Summer Parley

Mrs. Cora T. Casselman, M.P. for Edmonton East, has been asked to speak at two sessions on Saturday at the Ridesau summer conference, Ottawa. Her topics will be "The Neighbor at the Door" and "The Home and Civilization."

The conference lasts throughout the week of July 28 to August 6. Dr. Sherwood Eddy, the noted author, lecturer and world traveller, will be the chief speaker.

Hon. J. G. Gardiner is addressing one session. M. J. Caldwell, another, Prof. Mackay of Dalhousie, professor at Prince of Queen's and many other speakers are on the list.

The guests included Mrs. Norma Smith, Mrs. Robert Linke, Mrs. Charles Head, Mrs. Mrs. George Honey, Miss Margaret Linke, Miss Elsa Linke, Mrs. Lillian MacDonald and Mrs. Harry Honey.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dewhurst have announced the engagement of their daughter, Doreen Doris, to Patrick Rufus White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert White, New Westminster, B.C. The marriage will take place in the near future.

FROM SOUTH OF THE BORDER

To track down conversation pieces of antique jewelry for fall hats—daggers, keys, ear hoops and necklaces, that once graced the marble throats of Madonnas—designers have gone on safaris and returned with treasures which will be copied down. One adventurous designer came back from Guatemala with handwrought silver ornaments, like the necklace draping the matador-styled purple velvet hat shown at the right, and with fashion ideas inspired by folk customs and native use of color, fabrics, braid embroidery and silhouettes. Clever interpretation of the Guatemalan custom of scarf-covering the market baskets which native women pose on their heads is seen in the hat, at the left. Parrot green is the color borrowed for both the braid embroidered felt berchief, which interprets the native head scarf, and for the pillbox underneath—a designer's adaptation of the "tute" or head ring that supports the market basket.

The social committee of Technocracy Incorporated is sponsoring a basket picnic at Victoria park on Sunday at 2 p.m. All technocrats, their families and friends are invited. A program of sports and games for young and old is being arranged by the sports conveners, George Ditch and Jack Taylor. There will be a booth committee. Mrs. C. Sansom, Mrs. W. Blakes, Jr. and Mrs. E. Gallagher are assisting in general arrangements for the supper. Guests are asked to bring lunch baskets and cups. A sound car with music will be in attendance.

Model Home Post-War Plan

Acting on their conviction that post-war reconstruction will not be effective unless it is geared to meet people's needs, desires and pocket-books, the Workers' Educational Association has planned an interesting project for this summer—building a model home for a working man.

The blueprint will be prepared from the results of a survey carried out by WEA ideas and suggestions on the kind of home they would like to own and live in will be collected from workers all across Canada and placed before a board of competent architects and engineers. From this joint planning will come the model house. Consultant and building costs are to be met by a nation-wide raffle and the lucky winner will get the house—built for him wherever he lives.

Assurance of highest quality construction will be given by a competent panel of architects and social scientists who believe that there is no need for inferior construction in low-cost housing. All aspects of the house and its surroundings are being considered. Furniture makers are being asked to design equipment to suit the home, to show what proper planning can accomplish in the low-cost field.

This is the most extensive attempt yet made to get ideas from the working man about the kind of home he would like. It is not a housing plan, the WEA emphasizes, but a project which they hope will contribute something worthwhile to the science of home-making. Findings of the survey will be made available for general discussion and distribution.

Visits Front

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, July 28.—(AP)—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman, New York, visited a front line command post yesterday so far forward that Allied artillery fire was passing over his head. He also took a plane flight at Livorno during which he was able to see the Pisa skyline, including the famous leaning tower.

While high blood pressure often accompanies success it is also found in those who are markedly unsuccessful and who blame themselves for failure, thus producing an identical state of tension.

High blood pressure has come to be called "the disease of the successful." However it should not be blamed altogether upon success but upon the tense way of living which serves to bring success and at the same time cuts the individual off from proper period of let-down. While such continued tension may bring victory it may also bring blood vessel disaster and it is a question whether the victory is worth the price paid for it. To spend the first forty years of life in search of success and then to be condemned to spend the next years in search of health represents a bad bargain.

18 Evacuees From Britain Join Services

Eighteen of 113 British guest children who came to Alberta in 1940 have joined Canadian or British armed services or are serving in defence industries here or in the Old Country, according to C. B. Hill, provincial superintendent of child welfare.

Remainder of the group, being under 18 years are living with foster-parents in various parts of the province.

The guest children in Canada come under British government regulations and must return home at 18 years, to join the armed services there, or must join the Canadian forces instead. An alternative is to serve in essential industry in either country.

Latest guest child to return home is Vera Sless, Jasper, who leaves Friday evening for Britain, where she will join the armed forces. Her sister Dorothy joined the RCAF (W.D.) on her last birthday when she was 18.

Sless, from Cadocox, Wales, will be 18 in September. She went first to Mannville, and after staying here for a short time, resided with Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Skett, Jasper.

War Stamp Sales Fall Below Quota

War Savings Stamp quota for the first half of 1944 was $128,790 for the city of Edmonton, and $141,210 for rural Northern Alberta, a total of $270,000, whereas the sales amounted to $92,801.25 in the city of Edmonton, and $103,558 in the country, leaving a total of $73,240.75 short of the objective or a monthly deficit of more than $6,000.

"In all past Victory Loan campaigns Northern Alberta citizens have responded very well and the above results do not follow this good record through," an official stated. "It is known, however, that thousands of stamps have been purchased which have not been converted into certificates and are therefore valueless to their holders."

The National War Finance committee wishes to again draw to the attention of the public that 15 stamps may be exchanged at the bank for a $5 War Savings Certificate, which matures in approximately 7 1/2 years, but which in case of emergency, may be cashed at accrued value.

No New Infantile Cases Reported

No further cases of infantile paralysis have been reported in Alberta, Dr. Malcolm B. Ross, deputy minister of health, stated here Friday.

Four cases were reported from Red Deer earlier this week. In addition, two others were reported earlier in July, bringing the month's total to six cases to date.

McCoy Health Service

There is a paragraph taken from a recent letter which opens up an interesting side-light on the high blood pressure problem. "You say it is so difficult to get a patient with high blood pressure to relax and take it easy? My father is the patient and although he has been repeatedly warned that activity is dangerous because the pressure is over 200 he refuses to slow down. He is irritable enough at all times, but any attempt to make him more so."

The answer to this is that the patient with high blood pressure finds it hard to take life easy because he is not made that way. Had he been of the lethargic, placid type he probably would not have high blood pressure in the first place. To expect him to change overnight from the type of person who pursues success with vigor and determination to the type of person who is content to let things slide is as reasonable as to expect the leopard to change its spots.

Such an individual is frequently successful as he is willing to sacrifice the things he considers non-essential to the pursuit of the main goal. He dedicates his life to achieve a certain goal and in the process is continually tensed, in the manner of one perpetually competing in a race. Such psychic tension eventually affects the blood vessels and produces the rise in blood pressure which often robs him of the enjoyment of the middle years of life.

High blood pressure has come to be called "the disease of the successful." However it should not be blamed altogether upon success but upon the tense way of living which serves to bring success and at the same time cuts the individual off from proper period of let-down. While such continued tension may bring victory it may also bring blood vessel disaster and it is a question whether the victory is worth the price paid for it. To spend the first forty years of life in search of success and then to be condemned to spend the next years in search of health represents a bad bargain.

While high blood pressure often accompanies success it is also found in those who are markedly unsuccessful and who blame themselves for failure, thus producing an identical state of tension.

Before the Magistrate

O. B. Wilkinson, charged with cruelty to animals, was warned by Magistrate A. I. Miller, K.C., Friday morning that leading the live-stock he handled was his responsibility, and not that of railroad men, and was fined $30 or 60 days with hard labor.

A humane officer told the court that he had inspected a carload of hogs at an Edmonton abattoir on June 22. The car, built to hold 80 such animals, contained 105, of which 11 were dead and two more died as the car was being emptied.

Eusebe Bouquard pleaded guilty to intoxication and causing willful damage and was assessed $20 or 30 days on the first count, and $7 plus damage costs of $5 or 10 days, terms to run consecutively.

Sam Juke of Calgary, found guilty by Magistrate Harold L. Howe, K.C., Thursday afternoon of dangerous driving, was fined $25 or 30 days with hard labor. Pleading guilty previously to assaulting an officer of the RCMP, Juke was assessed $25 or 30 days on July 13.

Infractions of the Highway Vehicle Traffic Act resulted in penalties of $5 or seven days on Bill Panasuk of Northville, J. C. Herlihy of Calgary, John McDowell of Naman, and William R. Glasgow of Naman, and Bernard Hagare all of Edmonton; and Simeon Royer of North Edmonton. Two others, Harold E. Kimmel of Brightview and Kenneth L. McAuley of Edmonton, charged with exceeding the speed limit, were penalized. The former was fined $10 or 15 days, the latter $15 or 20 days.

Court Test Urged

Fear Family Allowances May Be Unconstitutional Expressed by Tory M.P.'s

OTTAWA, July 28.—(CP)—Four Progressive Conservative members from western Canada said yesterday in the Commons that they will support the government's family allowances bill.

Howard Green (P.C., Vancouver South), John Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre), A. H. Bence (P.C., Saskatoon City) and Lt. Col. J. A. Ross (P.C., Souris) said they would vote for the bill because there could be no disagreement on its objective.

Another Progressive Conservative, Tommy Church, member for Toronto Broadway, criticized the legislation as drafted, but did not say how he would vote on the bill if a vote was called.

As the support for the measure came from the opposition, Liberal members, in favor of the legislation, called attention to criticism directed at it by John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, Gordon Graydon, house leader, and Dr. Herbert Bruce (P.C., Toronto-Parkdale).

Mr. Diefenbaker, while giving unreserved support, said he believed the measure was unconstitutional and should be submitted to the courts at once with a view to determining whether it could be made operative and taking whatever steps were necessary to regularize it.

PROMISED SUPPORT

"I intend to support this measure," said Mr. Green. "I do so in the hope that it will benefit Canadian children and Canadian parents, thereby benefiting the Canadian nation as a whole."

"I am not sure the objectives sought to be reached in this bill might not have been attained in other and more practical ways, but that now is beside the point. The bill has been brought down; the government stands behind it as their method of meeting the problem and the House is faced with acceptance or rejection of this measure."

Mr. Green's principal complaint was that the bill was in general terms and left too much to be settled by regulations. He thought the whole arrangement should be written into the statute and suggested that the regulations, at least, be referred to a small committee of the house for study.

GREAT UNCERTAINTY

Mr. Diefenbaker argued that great uncertainty and disappointment would result if the bill were thrown out by the courts after it went into effect. He said he thought the position could easily be thought of getting a decision on it from the courts before next July when it is due to come into operation.

Arthur Roebuck (L-Toronto-Trinity) said one had to look to John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, to find out what his party thought of family allowances.

Mr. Bracken had stated the allowances legislation had all the earmarks of a political bribe. This meant he was irrevocably against the allowances because "I take it that he himself would not be a self-confessed briber of the public," said Mr. Roebuck.

SAYS PARTY OPPOSED

Mr. Bracken's attitude could be taken as that of his party. "Therefore, I say his party is irrevocably against family allowances," he said. He felt that the allowances would be repealed if the Conservatives were elected to power.

"We'll make it a workable act," interrupted Mr. Graydon.

Mr. Green said he did not believe payment of the allowances should only begin July 1, 1945. Payments should begin immediately at least to the children of men in the forces, or of men who have been discharged.

The allowances also should be paid for children born overseas from marriages of Canadian servicemen to British or other young women.

Some provision should have been put in the bill to prevent employers from reducing wages when payment of the allowances began.

Speaking during continued debate on second reading to the family allowances bill, Mr. Diefenbaker said

Not Regulation!

—Canadian Army Overseas Photo. Pte. H. Koebe, Winnipeg, found himself a new head dress when helping to clear the rubble from war-blasted Carpiquet.

there could be no disagreement on the objective of the bill, aimed at providing equality of opportunity and freedom from fear and want.

However, the allowances legislation as drafted was similar to the Old Age Pensions Act. Prime Minister Mackenzie King had stated in 1925, 1931 and 1935 that parliament did not have the power to pass an old age pensions act under which the federal government would pay and administer the pensions all over Canada. What Mr. King said of the old age pensions would equally apply to the allowances legislation.

The allowances legislation was unconstitutional under the terms of the British North America Act, and it was on such grounds that he wished to criticize the bill, said Mr. Diefenbaker.

He said he wanted to see legislation that would be operative and which would banish fear from the homes of the poor in the country. He did not want to see legislation passed which would be declared unconstitutional and therefore would remain inoperative.

FEAR LOWER WAGES

Mr. Diefenbaker said labor organizations had expressed belief that the allowances would lead to a lowering of the wage scales in the country. It was a known fact that in countries where allowances were paid there was a tendency to set lower wage levels.

At the forthcoming Dominion-provincial conference, Mr. King should urge that all the provinces set a common level of wages for light work. At present different minimum wage levels existed in each province.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the country was entitled to assurance that equitable minimum wage scales were established all across the country so that the allowances would not assist people in low wages in competition with others on high wages.

Lt. Col. J. A. Ross (P.C.—Souris) said his party had attempted to have the government start the allowance payments immediately instead of July 1, 1945. The party also had attempted to have the bill contain a provision for the fixing of minimum salaries across Canada. Both suggestions had been rejected.

Aid For Forces Said Big Issue In Alberta Vote

By Canadian Press Writer
HIGH RIVER, July 28.—(CP)—The men in tanks, planes and corvettes may not know it, but their future is a political issue in Alberta in the Aug. 8 election, James Walker, M.L.A., provincial leader of the Independent Citizens' Association of Alberta, said in an election campaign address yesterday. Mr. Walker is a candidate in Warner constituency.

Every one of the four political groups now sparring in the campaign has professed its determination to see that the men and women of the forces have every necessary help in re-establishment, but they disagree on the actual arrangements, he said.

GOVERNMENT PLAN

Premier E. C. Manning, leader of the Social Credit government seeking re-election, has announced a plan under which returned men would receive one-half section of land each if they desired it and this would be rent-free and tax-free for three years. The plan also provides the veteran would pay the government a rental one-eighth of his annual production for the following seven years, Mr. Walker said. At the end of that time he would be given clear title to the land.

The Independent party, Mr. Walker said, "have their doubts about the Manning proposal" as they feel most of the good land now is occupied. "The Independent Citizens' Association, by advertisement, is asking farmers if they know where there are any decent quarter sections of good land you would conscientiously offer to a returned veteran."

"The returned men should be assured of good land and not be hoodwinked through being given land in the bush, given up by other settlers as unworkable or given back to the province for taxes."

CO-OPERATIVE POLICY

Mr. Walker asserted the Social Crediters said their money-reform policies also will assist the returned men if their hopes are attained. The Independent party speaks of co-operation with the federal government in re-establishment and the adoption of sound principles in provincial government.

He quoted M. J. Coldwell, CCF national leader, as saying during his recent Alberta tour, the CCF party believed no serviceman should be discharged until he could be placed in some civilian occupation, and should receive pay and allowances for his dependents, until such time as he is rehabilitated.

The CCF says that both the Dominion and Alberta governments have failed to plan properly for the post-war period, the Independent party leader said.

"The Labor-Progressives, in the words of James Macpherson, provincial leader, suggest that if Mr. Manning has any doubt about what the servicemen want he can obtain their view from documents already available. The CCF feels that private enterprise cannot provide the employment needed after the war say party spokesmen. The Labor-Progressives say that they have doubts about the plans of reactionary forces remaining in Alberta."

Russian Officers

Tour Beachhead

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE, July 28.—(CP)—Members of a Russian military mission composed of two major-generals, a colonel and a rear-admiral, toured the Canadian and British sectors of the beachhead yesterday, visiting troops who took part in this week's bitter fighting south of Caen. The Russian officers had lunch at a Canadian headquarters.

none, and I favor the principle of the bill," Col. Ross said. A. H. Bence (P.C.—Saskatoon City) said the birthrate in the English-speaking parts of this country was not high enough.

More adequate wage rates might put more people in a position to bring up children. If there was a proper distribution of the country's productivity there would be no need for family allowances.

Mr. Bence said he would support the government's bill because he felt it would aid the people in the low wage groups to bring up children. However, there were many defects in the legislation.

The bill should have been made part of a comprehensive social security plan. Before its introduction to parliament it should have been discussed with the provinces.

MUST BE CONSTITUTIONAL

Mr. King should make sure that legislation was constitutional, said Mr. Bence. If it was not constitutional the plan might just go into operation when someone opposed to the measure would take it to the courts and have it declared ultra vires.

W. A. Tucker (L., Rosthern) said when the House was almost unanimous in support of family allowances and there was no opposition from the provinces it was a display of "bankruptcy of thought" or the opposition to argue about the constitutionality of the bill.

The father of a large family, himself, Mr. Tucker said the limitation of families was general throughout the white world and was not peculiar to Canada. The white race would have to cease limiting families if it wished to retain its place in the world.

START MUST BE MADE

It was no argument to say the bill was brought forward in too much of a hurry. If there was any real complaint it was that it was so late. A start had to be made somewhere and no better start could be made than in aiding children. Arguments that everything in social security should be done at the same time had no validity.
